Carolina Hopeful of Winning from Virgina on Thanksgiving.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Chapel Hill, N. C., November 20.—
With the arrival of "Doggle" Trenchard, who coached Carolina's varsity eleven in 1905, when the Tarhead overwhelmingly defeated Virginia to the tune of 17 to 0, on the Hill several days ago, and Albert L. Cox, of Raigh, who was All-Southern end here in 1902, the prospects for defeating Virginia in Richmond on Thanksglving Day have assumed a much brighter and more hopeful hue in spite of Carolina's defeat at the hands of Washington and Lee, it being generally conceded and understood that Carolina's defeat at the hands of Washington and Lee, although it was deteated by the small score of 5 to 0.

Albert Cox has charge of the coaching of Carolina's ends preparatory to the great struggle with Virginia on Thanksgiving Day, and a better man for the position could not be found. Cox was All-Southern end at Carolina in 1992, and with such a man added to the already excellent coaching squad the personnel of the entire eleven will be considerably improved.

Blacksburg, Va., November 20.—Only a few days of practice yet remain to the V. P. I. football team before it meets its old-time foes, North Carolina A. & M., in Norfolk on Thanksgiving Day. This time is being taken up by Coach Bocock in perfecting the men in that style of football that has made them winners of every game but one this season. Losing only to the Navy, and that by a very small score, they have defeated heavier teams under unfavorable conditions No man has been seriously injured in any game, and not the slightest charge of inelegibility has even been hinted against any man on the team, nor in any game played has there been a charge of unsportsmanlike playing or conduct on the part of the season. "My Man."
Flattering and enthusiastic reports are to hand about "My Man," the at traction scheduled at the Academy to-morrow and Wednesday and Wednesday matinee. The play is Forrest Halsey's dramatization of his own novelette. "The Quality of Mercy," and is pronounced a powerful and masterful psychological treatment of its theme-crime and punishment. It is in three acts, and from all accounts holds its audience riveted from the rise of the curtain until the finale of the last scene. Discriminating theatregoers curtain until the finale of the last scene. Discriminating theatregors and those who appreciate and maintain dramatic offerings in their best form have much to look forward to in this engagement. "My Man" comes direct from its successful engagement at the Bijou Theatre, in New York, and will be presented here with the same caste and production.

"The Servant in the House."

Few plays produced in recent years have aroused so much comment as "The Servant in the House," which comes to the Academy of Music November 24 for one night and special Thanksgiving Day matinee. It has enjoyed remarkable runs in both New York and Chicago, and has added to that record a series of really remarkable successes achieved in every large city in which it has been presented. The play is described as a modern comedy, sparkling with humor, but its theme is intensely dramatic and several of its scenes are of such stirring pathos as to occasionally border on tragedy.

In reviewing "Through Death Valley," the melodramatic scenic production, Acton Davies, the critic of the New York Evening Sun, said: "I'm free to confess that while many of these latter day melodramatic products move me to laughter rather than to deeper emotions, I thoroughly enjoyed the performance last night of "Through Death Valley." It is a melodrama with a purpose. It is not congructed without rhyme or reason, but it shows vividly conditions as they exist in the far West, especially among the Mormons. I can heartily recommend it to those theatre-goers that prefer action to drawing room epigrams. In its way "Through Death Valley' is not one bit less interesting or less substantial than 'The Girl of the Golden West' or "The Squawman.'"

"Do you know that your husband is likely to keel over at any minute and drop dead? It might happen at any time, while he was going to the bath room or for a drink of water."

"He can't die too soon for me," Mrs Schenk replied, according to testimony of Miss Kline. "It he'd die I'd be the happiest woman in the world."

Witness sald Mrs. Schenk told her she was "nothing but an Indian slave" about her home; 'hat her husband mistrezted her, and that she was sick of it all. Widely Known Men Will Address Annual Convention in Washington.

In Washington.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Washington, November 20.—The seventh annual convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, which will be held in this city December 7, 8 and 9, is expected to bring to the national capital the largest gathering of waterway enthusiasts ever assembled in this country. President Taft, who will deliver the opening address to the delegates, said recently in the course of a speech in Chicago that transportation was the question of the hour, and that the only solution of the problem was recourse to the waterways of the United States.

Probably next in importance to the address of President Taft will be the speech of Judson Harmon, of Ohio, who for years has been a close student of the question of improved waterways.

In addition to these distinguished citizens, others quite as well known in their several vocations will deliver addresses during the days of the convention. Among these will be Hon. Clifton Seften, chairman of Conservation of the Canadian Government; the Mexican Ambassador, General W. H. Bixby, chief of engincers: Governor Clifton Sefton, chairman of Conservation of the Canadian Government; the Mexican Ambassador, General W. H. Bixby, chief of engineers; Governor Horace White, of New York; Representative Champ Clark, of Missouri; Colonel William L. Sibert, member of the Panama Canal Conmission, who will speak on "The Panama Canal as a Connecting Link Between Our Coasts"; Watter S. Dickey, of Kansas City, chief promoter of the Kansas City River Steamboat Line; F. W. Crandall, national chairman of the railroad committee of the Travelers' Protection Association; Robert J. MacFarland, of Brooklyn, who is one of the leading spirits in the New York Waterways Association, and Mrs. Hoyle Tompkies, of Louisiana, president of the Woman's National Rivers and Harbors Congress. The appearance of the chief of engineers upon the platform of the congress marks a precedent, as none of the preceding chiefs of engineers upon the platform of the congress marks a precedent, as none of the preceding chiefs of engineers has ever addressed this body.

The particular objection to these officials appearing on the platform has been that they were intimately asso-

the improvement of the waterways of the country, and that their references cial in character; therefore greater im-portance might attach to their utterances than would otherwise be the case General Bixby has accepted the invi tation of President Ransdell to address the congress, after permission from the Secretary of War.

Four thousand delegates attended the convention held here last year, and, according to Secretary Allison, who has opened headquarters in Washington, this number will be greatly augmented at the fothcoming convention. at the fothcoming convention.

Special importance will attach to the address of Colonel Sibert on the value of the Panama Canal. P. H. McG.

gates already have signified their in-tention of attending.
Twenty-three Governors and thirty Congressmen will attend the sessions. The guest list includes many promi-nent women of the country. Three of the principal speakers of the conven-tion will be Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey; John A. Dix, of New York, and Judson Harmon, of Ohio, all recently elected Governors.

Governor John Franklin Fort, of New Jersey, and Governor-Elect Eugene Foss, of Massachusetts, are also expected to be present.
